Re: Item 22-876 City Council Agenda November 1, 2022
Consideration of Adoption of Cannabis Business Regulations

Dear Mayor Delgleize and City Councilmembers:

Ocean View School District adamantly supports including a 1,000-foot or greater buffer between cannabis zoned properties and K-12 schools. We have reviewed the staff report that includes Attachment #1 Draft Cannabis Candidate Sites Map dated October 2022. Ocean View School District's Westmont Elementary School, located at 8251 Heil Avenue, is within the 1,000-foot buffer. The 1,000-foot buffer must be measured from the school's property line since all school grounds are used for school purposes, such as outdoor recreation.

We strongly request that the Cannabis Candidate Sites Map be revised to eliminate those properties within 1,000 feet of Westmont Elementary School. Anything less is unacceptable.

Thank you for your thoughtful consideration when determining if cannabis manufacturing is an appropriate use for the city.

Sincerely,

Michael Conroy, Ed. D.

Subject: November 1 Council Meeting Agenda Item 25

Concerning Agenda Item 25 to direct staff to draft a zoning change to delete the prohibition of cannabis business and provide regulation for such businesses, I remain concerned that this is moving forward without adequate public notice and involvement. As we have seen with the Edwards Hill fiasco, the perception of the Council and the community as to the adequacy of public notice differs widely. Legalized recreational cannabis businesses popping up all over Huntington Beach will dramatically and forever change the character of the city, and in my opinion, for the worse. Whatever you think about the merits of cannabis, you cannot think it acceptable to make this change and have the community think they were never told about it.

I recommend you pause this freight train until adequate public notice and discussion has occurred. The two open house meetings held so far had very little public participation apart from people associated with the industry. I think a special meeting with notice mailed to all residents would not be too much.

As a resident of Huntington Beach, I strongly support the sale and taxation of cannabis in our city.

There are liquor stores everywhere, and that is equivalent.

All we are doing at this point by not allowing this, is giving tax money that would go to us, to other cities nearby.

If someone in HB buys some (and many, many do) the taxes go to the city they bought it in.

Is our stance that we don't use cannabis here or somehow not selling it here will make it so? Well, we do use cannabis in the city of HB and we're losing tons of money by dragging behind the times.

Additionally, I support very much letting the voters decide how to spend the tax money from cannabis.

Dan, I noticed on the DRAFT for Cannabis Commercial Regulation that store hours are only 8 AM- 8 PM and non-Cannabis food cannot be distributed on the property.

I've thought about our previous exchange quite a bit, and I believe the biggest problem with big guy Cannabis sales is the retail atmosphere. There is a lack of community culture surrounding Cannabis despite its legality in CA because Cannabis cannot be served and consumed on site unlike alcohol.

If you truly want revitalized areas down Beach Blvd, restaurants/venues open until 2 AM on Friday/Saturday that have live music or DJs, Cannabis infused meals, Cannabis infused drinks, and Cannabis smoking lounge areas on site is the way. As it is now, most Cannabis retail stores are mandated to be sterile corporate experiences that lack community. The regulations mapped out in the DRAFT nearly guarantee market dominance and working conditions of the Cannabis equivalent to Wal-Mart and Amazon (like we can clearly see in Long Beach). I do not want to see the same mistakes made in Huntington Beach.

Peace and Love,

John Kochevar

Hello

I would prefer the city completely outlaw cannabis sales in the city. Some will say it will generate sales tax revenue, but at what price? The price will be the further diminishing of public safety in our family friendly community to sell more drugs (legal or not).

As a former smoker of cannabis, I can tell you with first hand experience that there is no positive impact cannabis has on a community, but there are numerous downsides including:

- Increased crime in the vicinity if cannabis retailers
- Increased vagrancy in the vicinity of cannabis retailers
- Increased driving while high in the community
- Increased acceptance of illegal drugs in the community. And yes cannabis is a gateway drug to harder drugs. It was for me, as it led me to use cocaine, amphetamines, psychedelics and alcohol in my youth.
- Increased social acceptance and influence of legal and illegal drugs on children and young people in the community

Please do not allow cannabis sales in the community of Huntington Beach!

Sincerely

Can I provide these services in residential homes to Huntington Beach home owners? or is this illegal due to, "a thing of value...related to provision of cannabis?" Has any bong rental businesses applied to the city? Can I advertise this on GoogleMaps in the city of HB?

My name is Niki Wetzel, and I have been a professional planner working for municipal governments for 25 years. I write to you today as a nearly 20 year resident of Huntington Beach.

I attended the city-sponsored cannabis open house on 10/16/22 and reviewed the information provided with city staff. While I feel that the testing of cannabis should be permitted in the city of Huntington Beach, I do not believe that manufacturing, cultivation, or retail sales should be allowed. I believe that the testing of small amounts of cannabis in labs would not have a negative impact on the community, but I believe that the odors, traffic, loitering, and potential crime that the other types of uses would bring would adversely impact our community. In addition, I noticed that a buffer from other sensitive uses is included in the plans, but a buffer from residential uses is not. Should retail, manufacturing, or cultivation uses be permitted, I suggest that a buffer from residential uses would be crucial to minimize potential impacts to community residents.

The cannabis industry is strong and persuasive, but our city is under no obligation to allow for uses that would be detrimental to it.

Thank you for your consideration.

Hello, I see there was an open house regarding public comment on cannabis businesses on October 15.. Unfortunately I was unable to attend.

Is there a recording of the speaking points at the event that I can view?

Additionally,

I saw on the city's instagram a map was posted with highlighted sections along with a key indicating "zoning". Has the committee finalized ordinance requirements?

I also saw a snippet of what looked to be a timeline or flow chart indicating the path to launching cannabis businesses in the City of HB. Is this something I can have access to, so I know how to plan for the future of Cannabis in HB?

I look forward to your reply,

Honorable Mayor and City Council Members,

I urge you to pull Agenda Item 25 on tonight's calendar pending future public notice and community input.

Agenda Item 25 to directs staff to draft a zoning change to delete the prohibition of cannabis business and provide zoning regulation for such businesses. I remain concerned that this is moving forward without adequate public notice/involvement and clear regulations/restrictions for retail, grow and processing cannabis businesses. Legalized recreational cannabis businesses opening all over Huntington Beach will dramatically and forever change the character of the city, and in my opinion, for the worse. Whatever you think about the merits of cannabis, you cannot think it acceptable to make this change and have the community think they were never told about it.

Hi, I know this may be late. I wanted to submit my public comments to the city council. I plan to present them orally, but this is just in case there is limited time for public comment.

HB City Council Cannabis Public Comment

I, a local homeowner, am attending here today to support the city council's efforts to legalize and regulate cannabis businesses in Huntington Beach. Cannabis use is very common and popular throughout all of California. The city is making some good decisions and bad decisions within its regulatory framework.

The city does not need to be afraid of the presence of cannabis commerce within city limits. Arbitrary restrictions that limit the presence of businesses are detrimental to the city's goal of collecting revenue from cannabis commerce and to the public perception of cannabis use. Ten retail permits may be a good start, but should not be a hard cap on the amount of retailers within the city because demand for legal cannabis products is very high. People want these businesses and want a diversity of choice when selecting from where to purchase products and what kind of business to operate. The kinds of businesses that are being permitted are limited to the degree that they will not allow for an environment of entrepreneurial creativity and small businesses to thrive. Microbusinesses are an opportunity for folks without significant capital or business experience to start a cannabis business and provide boutique products. Outdoor cultivation should be allowed as it creates a product that consumers prefer to flowers produced under indoor synthetic lights. Cannabis events can be safe, fun and inviting so that people can see there is little harm to be had from cannabis. Limiting the convenience of drive-through ordering is nonsensical. Cannabis customers should be able to limit their interaction with other folks as we are still living through the global pandemic of COVID-19. These restrictions are bad for a competitive and creative business environment.

Geographic restrictions will also have a negative effect. I do not understand why the city has prohibited cannabis businesses in the downtown and coastal retail zones. Maybe to appease wealthy landowners? Maybe the city council thinks these kinds of legal, regulated, popular, and safe businesses bring shame to the city, so they ought to be kept away from its prime real estate? If either of these are true, they are backwards ways of thinking. All types of folks enjoy the beachfront, including cannabis consumers. So, why must these types of products not be sold there? I guarantee businesses located here would provide immense tax revenue and foster a positive perspective of these businesses as being beneficial for our city. Some folks think these businesses are undesirable, create problems for neighbors, and are unsafe to be around, but all of these are not true. The security measures imposed as part of the new regulations will allow for functions as safe as any other business permitted to operate within the city. If folks can get drunk and belligerent at an establishment in either the downtown or other coastal areas, why should a responsible adult not be able to buy cannabis products during a beach visit? Tourists, residents, and neighbors, I am sure, will enjoy the convenience and accessibility of legal cannabis in a beautiful beachfront setting. Please also consider utilizing the state minimum requirements for setbacks from 'sensitive uses' when siting cannabis businesses. All this does is reduce the total number of available locations for commerce which is redundant if the city will limit the number of available retail permits anyway.

On a related note, the city council must adopt an ordinance to allow personal outdoor cultivation of cannabis on private property. Growing cannabis outdoors within the limits of state law is a beneficial use of land for private landowners and is not a nuisance to neighbors. The city allows for homeowners to smoke tobacco products on their premises, which is a great nuisance to neighbors and also has documented negative health effects as a result of secondhand smoke. This is a common sense ordinance that allows homeowners greater freedom in how they utilize their property without negatively impacting neighbors.
